PLUCKY CHILD STEEPLEJACK.

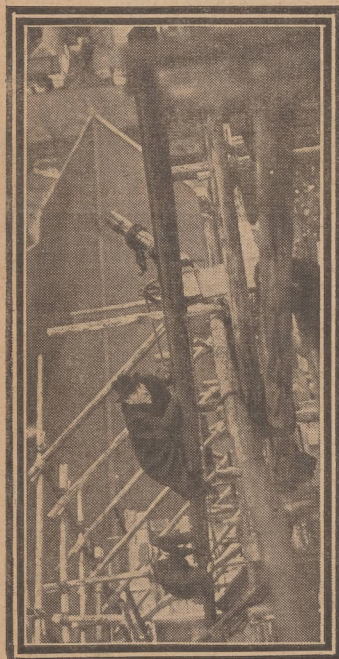

CIVIL SERVANT CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

The plucky little steeplejack ascending the steeple.

Holding a confidential and responsible position in the service of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, and drawing a salary of between £600 and £800 a year, Alfred Graham Hodgson was charged at Bow-street yesterday with attempting to defraud the Inland Revenue by forgery. He is seen above (in the bowler hat) on his way to the police-court.

Laying the stone.

Little Miss Favell Lovett, aged seven, performed a remarkable feat at Southampton yesterday. Without a sign of fear or nervousness she climbed the tall steeple of St. Mary's Church to lay the top stone and the cross of the new steeple. She is the daughter of the vicar, and, as the youngest member of the family, was chosen to perform the ceremony. The photographs show how she carried out her arduous duty. —(Daily Mirror photographs.)

"RATTLING GOOD SERVICE."

The experience of Mr. George L. Rogerson,
17, Birch Grove, Weaste, Manchester—

"It gives me the greatest of pleasure to report of the good quality rubber you put into your 'Pericles' tyres, for the price you charge.

Some 19-20 months ago I purchased one of your 'Pericles' tyres from a Manchester cycle shop, just after they had come out.

I placed the same to replace a worn-out one on my back wheel, and am glad to say it has done rattling good service for the price it cost.

I should think the tyre has been ridden on about 4,500 to 5,000 miles since.

I do a lot of riding in the town and country, and have not been stranded yet with a nasty puncture to any of your tyres.

The secret is: use your tyres, have them well pumped up, take a steady rate of speed, and they will last for eighteen months, not merely six months as the guarantee states.
I am purchasing another of your tyres this week, but could not, without letting you know what satisfaction I have had."

WE INVITE EVERY THIN MAN AND WOMAN HERE

EVERY PERSON IN THE BRITISH ISLES TO GET FAT AT OUR EXPENSE.

Don't Be "The Skeleton at the Feast." Sargol Makes Puny, Peevish People
Plump and Popular.

This is an invitation that no thin man or woman can afford to ignore. We tell you why. We are going to give you a food that helps digest the other foods, a food that puts good solid flesh on people who are thin and underweight, no matter what the cause may be. A food that makes brain in five hours and blood in four—a food that puts the red corpuscles in the blood which every thin man or woman so sorely needs. How can we do this? We will tell you. Science has discovered a remarkable concentrated treatment which increases cell growth, the very substance of which our bodies are made—a treatment that makes indigestion and other stomach troubles disappear as if by magic,
and makes an old dyspeptic or a sufferer from weak nerves or lack of vitality feel like a two-year-old. This new treatment, which has proved a boon to every thin person, is called Sargol. Don't forget the name "S-A-R-G-O-L." Nothing like it has ever been produced before. It is a revelation to women who have never been able to appear stylish in anything they wear because of their thinness. It is a godsend to every man who is under-weight or is lacking in nerve, force or energy. If you want the good, hard muscle which is necessary to win in the battle of life—if you want a beautiful and well-rounded figure of symmetrical proportions, of which you can feel justly proud—if you want a body full of thinking life and energy, win in today and we will send you absolutely free a 2s. 6d. box of Sargol that will prove all we claim. Chew one up with every meal, and in five minutes after you take the first concentrated tablet of this precious food it will commence to unfold its virtues and it will by actual demonstration often increase the weight at the rate of one pound a day. But you say you won't profit. Well, here you are. Here is the statement of those who have tried—who have been convinced—and who will swear to the virtues of this marvelous preparation.

J. B. HOLMES writes—

"I have taken Sargol now exactly six weeks, and the way it has increased my weight and renewed my strength is simply marvellous. I have gained 2st. 3lb., and my strength has increased in like proportion. Sargol is certainly the most wonderful flesh-builder I have ever heard of. I am complimented daily on the great change it has made in my appearance."

MISS FANNIE SPENCER says—

"I am greatly pleased at the results I have obtained from your Sargol treatment. I had been thin and scraggy for years, and thought it natural for me to be that way, as my people were all quite thin. A friend persuaded me to try Sargol, and the very first week I gained 4lb., and in five weeks' time I had increased my weight by
1st. 2lb. Sargol is certainly a most wonderful preparation for increasing weight, and I shall always recommend it, as I feel and look much better since taking the treatment."

H. A. MARTIN says—

"When I started to take Sargol I only weighed 8st.
11lb., and was extremely weak and nervous. Today, after taking Sargol 35 days, I turned the scales at exactly 10st. 10lb. My nervous trouble has entirely gone, and I am feeling better than I have felt before in years."

MRS. C. J. MORSE writes—

"A year ago I was very much run down, was anemic and suffered greatly with my nerves. I tried several well-known remedies without relief, and finally had to go away for my health. Change of climate and travel both failed, and I returned home a complete wreck. I was then advised to try Sargol, and immediately I began to recover my health. I have now taken it for 6 weeks, and have gained 1st. 4lb., and my health is completely restored.
Sargol I believe is the most efficacious treatment in the world for anemia, loss of weight or nerve troubles."

You may know some of these people or know somebody who knows them. We will send you their full address if you wish, so that you can find out all about Sargol and the wonders it has wrought."

Probably you are now thinking whether all this can be true. Stop it. Write us at once, and we will send you, absolutely free, a 2s. 6d. package of the most wonderful tablets you have ever seen. No matter what the cause of your thinness is from, Sargol makes this folk fat, but we don't ask you to take our word for it. Simply cut the coupon below, and en-

STORY OF FORGERY CONFESSION.

Somerset House Charge of Attempted Fraud.

REPAYMENT CLAIM.

Counsel Tells of Dramatic Accusation "You Are Anson!"

That while holding a confidential position at Somerset House and receiving a salary of between £600 and £800 a year he tried to defraud the Inland Revenue by forging a false claim was the remarkable allegation made against a Civil Servant at Bow-street yesterday.

The accused man—Alfred Graham Hodgson, aged thirty-nine, of Twyford-avenue, Ealing—was remanded for a week on bail on a charge of attempting to obtain money by fraud. He is a man of medium height, clean-shaven, and his dark hair is tinged with grey.

Mr. Boyd, who prosecuted, said that Hodgson had confessed to perjury, forgery and the attempted fraud.

Hodgson's position was one of responsibility. He had been in the service of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue for a number of years, and was a secretary to the Special Commissioners who deal with the super-tax.

CLAIM FOR £374 REPAYMENT.

Up to the autumn of last year he had not done anything to forfeit the confidence of his principals. His work was confidential and his reputation was high.

On October 14 last, continued Mr. Boyd, a letter was received by the Claims Department purporting to come from Andrew Anson, Great Western Hotel, Paddington.

It stated that he was a resident of Los Angeles, and he intended to make a claim for repayment of £374 10s. income-tax, paid in three years, in respect of Canadian Northern Railway stock, on the ground of non-residence in England.

On the same day Messrs. Shepherds and Walters, solicitors, received a letter, signed Andrew Anson, informing them of the claim, and asking them to receive the money on his behalf.

The Commissioners sent a form of questions to Anson, who forwarded it to the solicitors, with a certificate, purporting to be signed by Mr. Harding, the London secretary of the Canadian Northern Railway Company, and stating that £124 odd had been paid in respect of Anson's dividends from the company, between June 1, 1910, and December 1, 1912.

Upon the certificate was a declaration signed by Anson to the effect that he was the holder of the stock referred to.

On October 26 the claim was being investigated when one of the Commissioners noticed that the certificate purporting to be signed by Mr. Harding related to only one year's income-tax, whereas the claim was for three years.

"NOT MY SIGNATURE."

Mr. Harding was asked to send a fresh certificate. "This is not mine," he said. "I never gave this certificate."

He added that his signature had been forged, that no one named Anson held any of the company's stock, and that the income-tax to which claim was made represented £50,000 worth of stock.

It no doubt came to the knowledge of Hodgson that the forgery had been discovered, said Mr. Boyd, for an anonymous letter was received at Somerset House, in the department in which defendant was employed, stating that "Mr. Anson's affairs had better be looked into, as he is a man of about £70,000 a year."

The object of this letter, declared Mr. Boyd, was to enable Hodgson to get the documents relating to Anson into his hands. He asked a clerk to get them, but the papers were not given to him. Later, Mr. Jacobs, another official, recalled a similar claim made by a Mr. Williams, who said he was an American gentleman.

The claim, it was alleged, had been introduced by Hodgson, who obtained the form of claim in connection with it on the pretext that he would investigate it.

Having obtained the form, he went away, and later he told Mr. Jacobs that his coat had been stolen and with it Williams's claim, which, however, had been withdrawn.

On December 10 Hodgson, in a state of great distress, saw Mr. Fisher, one of the Commissioners.

"YOU ARE ANSON!"

He said his brother had used him for the purpose of sending in a false claim for the return of income tax, but it had failed, and he hoped, for the sake of his family, and so on, the matter would be allowed to drop.

Meanwhile, inquiries were made at the Great Western Hotel, and Hodgson was identified as the man who booked a room there in the name of Anson.

An inspector saw Hodgson. "Anson's claim and all the documents for forgeries," said the inspector. "You are Anson!"

Hodgson first denied it, and then he said, "Yes, I am Anson. I am the forger. I admit everything. I plead guilty. All the signatures are in my handwriting. You know I am not a criminal. I would rather not say anything about Williams's claim, except that I could have got the money had I tried. Had the claim gone through I do not think I should have taken the money."

After evidence had been given, the case was remanded for a week, bail being allowed. (Photograph on page 1.)

SILENCE OF DEATH AFTER WIRELESS.

Liners Race to Rescue of Steamer
That Founders in Gale.

25 LIVES LOST?

"Sinking south of Nantucket..." was the grim, terse wireless message flashed early yesterday from a steamer in the heart of a great Atlantic storm to New York.

There the message ended. No reply came to all the many wireless calls from ships that had caught, that brief, despairing cry; no further news—just silence. It was not until late last night that the mystery was solved. The silence meant death. The steamer had gone down in the storm, and many of her crew, it is believed, perished with her.

The vessel, it is now stated, was the oil steamer Oklahoma (5,800 tons), belonging to the Gulf Refining Company, built at Camden, New Jersey, in 1908.

Twenty-five men were drowned, says the Central News, and eight are known to be saved. Reuter says that others may be in the rescue ships. All day long contradictory wireless messages were received, and the name of the lost vessel was given variously as—

Delaware.

Pennsylvania.

Waska.

Dist. Waska.

The Oklahoma is registered at Port Arthur, and she was bound for that port from New York.

SHIPS THAT ANSWERED CALL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The latest wireless messages state that the name of the oil steamer which was lost off Sandy Hook is the Oklahoma, belonging to the Gulf Refining Company, built at Camden, New Jersey, over 5,800 tons.

Twenty-five men were drowned and eight are known to be saved.—Central News.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The wireless messages regarding the disaster came from the Hamburg-Amerika Company's steamship Bavaria.

Although several vessels were standing by, the Bavaria alone was able to render assistance. She took off Captain Gunter and several officers and men.

Exact information regarding the extent of the disaster to the tank steamer Oklahoma will probably be obtained on the arrival of any one of the five vessels that stood by in response to her wireless calls.

Hope is not yet abandoned that some of the crew still unaccounted for are distributed among the five ships, as the fragmentary wireless messages received up to the present do not prove that all were drowned.

All that is known is that Captain Gunter and seven others, including most of the officers, are on board the Bavaria, which is making for Boston and is due to arrive there to-morrow.—Reuter.

Before the receipt of the above message a New York Exchange telegram stated that the royal mail steamer Caribbean, the White Star liner Georgic, and three Revenue cutters, which have been searching the coast near Sandy Hook, had not been able to find any trace of the crew.

SNOW FOLLOWS GALE.

Snow has again fallen in the North of England following heavy gales and rain. Floods have been succeeded in Westmoreland by keen, cold, driving showers of snow and sleet, and nearly three inches of snow fell yesterday at Hawick.

The fall of temperature in London was considerable, the thermometer at the offices of The Daily Mirror showing the following readings:—

9 a.m. 45deg. 4 p.m. 40deg.

2 p.m. 42deg. 10 p.m. 38deg.

Prospects of frost are improved by the change in the wind yesterday from south-west to north-west.

DAY OF THE BANGO.

Cardinal's Condemnation of Popular Dances Supported by Pastors.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Prominent Protestant and Jewish pastors of New York have followed Cardinal Finlay in putting a ban on the tango and other gaudy dances.

The Rev. Charles Eaton, of the Madison-avenue Baptist Church, declares that "the tango boom is a form of nervous degeneracy and productive of unwholesome social conditions."

"To-day people of all walks of life seem to have abandoned their common sense, and instead of making a dance a beautiful means of recreation have turned dancing into a sort of civilised snake dance. I don't know what the parents of our country are thinking about."

"They throw their children to 'crocodiles' like Indian mothers used to do, but the mothers of to-day are without any religious motive."

"They are consumed by the itch for social advancement, and seem to think that the only way to become known in the social world is to dance into it."

Present conditions are the result of spiritual degeneracy, and it is time for the Church to press home and use every legitimate means against these conditions."

Rabbi Joseph Silverman, of the Temple Emanuel, in Fifth-avenue—the most fashionable synagogue in the city—said: "I am in sympathy with the action of the Catholic Church in condemning and opposing the present-day hysterical forms of dancing."

MOTOR-CAR PLOT.

Prisoner Rescued from Police at Railway Station—Rush Towards Exit.

A daring plot to rescue a prisoner from the police by aid of a motor-car was mentioned at West Ham yesterday, when Walter Barling, a coster-monger, was fined £2, or in default a month's imprisonment, for obstructing the police.

The prosecution explained that on December 18 a man named Johnson was being taken to Chelmsford Prison, and there was a desperate plot to rescue him. If he had been got away he would have been rushed off in a motor-car which was in waiting.

Constable Hubbard said that, with Constable Stone, he took Johnson to Stratford Railway Station for the journey to Chelmsford. Barling and some other men followed them to the station platform, where about twenty men were assembled.

When the train came in there was a cry of "Rescue!" followed by a violent struggle, during which witness, Police Constable Stone and Johnson fell down the platform stairs.

Some of the men then seized the witness, others seized Police Constable Stone, and there was a cry "Rescue, or we'll be too late!"

Johnson was actually rescued, and was being hurried up towards an exit, but the witness and Stone got free, and caught him again. He was pulled into the porters' room, and other police then arrived.

FAMOUS TRAINER RETIRES.

PEER'S SON WEDS GERMAN HEIRESS.

Rose Marriage of Berlin "Coal King's" Only Daughter.

£10,000,000 FORTUNE.

Tango Dancing After Reception—
Religious Rite To-day.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

BERLIN, Jan. 5.—It was "roses, roses all the way" to-day, when, amid glowing scenes of splendour, the civil marriage took place of the Hon. John Freeman-Mitford, fourth son of Lord Redesdale, and Fräulein Marie Anne von Friedländer-Fuld.

Pink and white roses are the bride's favourite flowers, and pink roses of many delicate shades mingled with masses of white blooms, decorated the whole of the Friedländer Palace, the bride's home.

So beautiful was the scheme of decoration that it was a veritable palace of roses to which the 300 guests were invited.

The bride is the only child of the German "coal king," whose fortune is reputed to amount to the vast sum of £10,000,000.

Herr Friedländer-Fuld is a close friend of the Kaiser and a leading figure of the social world in Berlin.

In accordance with German custom, the wedding festivities extend over three days, and began last night with a brilliant reception and ball at the home of the bride.

No fewer than seven ambassadors were included among the guests, bearing names famous in diplomacy, commerce, art, letters and practically every walk of German and European business life.

There was music by the Philharmonic Orchestra, one of the best in the world, and a charming production of the closing scene of "Midsummer Night's Dream," under the direction of Professor Max Reinhardt.

THE TANGO SWAY.

Though the function was characterised in many respects by much simplicity, and, despite the Kaiser's ban, the tango was danced freely by dozens of guests.

It had been hitherto understood that the tango was "taboo" in houses graced by the presence of members of the Court or officers of the army, but it was danced with delight by last night's guests.

The bride looked radiantly happy when she appeared to-day with the bridegroom, and after the civil marriage ceremony there came a family luncheon party.

Lord Redesdale was the official witness on behalf of his son, and the "coal king" performed the similar function for his daughter. The bridegroom is aged thirty and the bride twenty-one.

The religious ceremony will be held at Trinity Church at two o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

The ceremony will be followed by a wedding breakfast at the Friedländer home, immediately after which the bridal couple will leave for the honeymoon, which will be spent on the Riviera.

The wedding gown of the bride is of white silk without ornaments or jewels.

BRIDESMAIDS' PINK ROSES.

She has four bridesmaids—the two Fräuleins Von Schwabach, of Berlin, Fräulein Rose Hardy, of Hamburg, and Fräulein Liebermann—whose dresses are all of white tulle and mousseline de soie, with white tunics and black hats. Each bridesmaid will wear one pink rose.

The best man will be Mr. Reginald Bridgeman, secretary to the British Embassy in Paris, the other gentlemen being Mr. R. Mitford, Count Alfons Clary, of Prague, and C. Calmann, of Paris.

Besides making Mr. Freeman-Mitford a partner in his firm, the bride's father has given a completely furnished house in Berlin, which will be the bride and bridegroom's principal home.

Among other gifts is a silver casket sent by the First Lord of the Admiralty and Mrs. Churchill.

Among the wedding presents are Frau Friedländer-Fuld's gift of a rope of pearls and a pearl necklace; the bridegroom's present to the bride, a pearl necklace; and Lord and Lady Redesdale's gift, a complete gold toilet table set.

Herr Friedländer-Fuld also gives a chest containing a gold and silver table service. The bride's aunt, Mme. Calmann, of Paris, presents a collection of white table plate.

Sir Ernest Cassel has presented the bridegroom with a pair of emerald cuff links, and the bride with a chain watch with diamond and sapphire ornaments.

Lord and Lady Redesdale gave their son a scarf-pin with an uncut sapphire surrounded by diamonds. (Photograph on page 11.)

WIRELESS WORDS FROM ST. KILDA

The following message by wireless regarding the wireless station at St. Kilda reached the Editor of The Daily Mirror last night:—

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ST. KILDA, Jan. 5 (by Daily Mirror wireless).—Everything now in first-rate condition. We are having continual blizzards. Very cold. Compliments of the season from St. Kildans, kind regards and good luck for the year.

The following wireless to the Editor of The Daily Mirror arrived subsequently:—

I am requested by the inhabitants of St. Kilda to convey to you their sincere good wishes for 1914, and to express their hope that the year upon which we have now entered may prove to be one of great prosperity and success for your paper, to which they owe so much.

ASKED FATHER FOR THE MOON.

Harold Earle's Story of How He Saw
Through Disguise.

"CROSS WITH MOTHER."

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

PARIS, Jan. 5.—Little Harold Earle, the boy whose father, of "affinity" fame, is charged with kidnapping him, has returned to France to his mother.

He arrived, from Norway, in Paris yesterday afternoon in company with M. Louis Steeg, the French Minister at Copenhagen. Mr. Earle and a woman were arrested in Norway.

A representative of the Matin chatted with Harold in the train, and describes him as being a big boy for his age.

In his beautiful blue eyes the writer detected, from time to time, a melancholy thought. Telling of his departure from Lanotte-Beuvron, Harold said:

"Papa came to seek us in an automobile, but I did not know it was papa."

He had clipped off his beard and only had a tiny piece of beard left, and also wore those blue glasses which are worn by blind people who ask for money.

"His voice, too, was changed. He said to me: 'You know that I know you well, and also your uncle and your papa. Supposing I were your Uncle Victor...'"

"But you are not, I said."

"Supposing I were your papa? What would you ask me if I were?"

"Then, in order to test him, I replied just as I used to do when papa asked me that question. I said: 'If you were my father I should ask you for the moon!'"

"Then he placed me on his knees and kissed me, and I recognised his voice and knew that he was my papa."

"THEN HE KISSED ME."

"We went on a long journey together. We did not travel in beautiful carriages like these, but in wooden ones."

"We passed through Belgium, Germany, Sweden and Norway."

"From Eoburg we went to Lillehammer, Winstra Hamar, Kapp, and Kraby."

"It was very cold, and I did a great deal of skiing, but I missed not having friends of my own age to play with."

"Father and I, of course, spoke English, and both he and I were amused because I kept making mistakes."

"I could never remember to say 'it' when referring to a thing."

"For instance, when he showed me an orange I said: 'She is rotten,' because in French orange is feminine, and you say 'elle.'"

"From Kraby we were going on to Kapp to await money from grandma in America, but the lensman—that is, the police magistrate—came and took father to his house. He said papa must stop there."

"M. Picard, who is quite nice, came in the evening, and said that papa would have to stop in prison for four or five weeks."

"I don't like papa to be in prison. Why have they done this to him?"

"M. Picard was amazed to find me a boy. He fully believed that I should be disguised as a girl."

"I am rather cross with mamma for making papa go to prison," he concluded, "but when I am bigger I shall arrange all that."

HUSBAND FOLLOWS WIFE IN DEATH

Mr. and Mrs. Peterson, of Bethnal Green, whose deaths unfold a pathetic story. The wife died of pneumonia, and the husband returned home grief-stricken from the hospital and died the following day. It is said, from the same complaint.

GIRL IN FLAMES IN STREET.

How a fifteen-year-old girl rushed in terror into the street with her clothes on fire was told at Wood Green yesterday, when a verdict of Death from Misadventure was returned at the inquest on Maud Cecilia Caudale, of River-avenue, Palmer's Green. She had died on Sunday from the effect of her injuries.

It was explained that she was placing some garments on the rack over the kitchen fire when her clothing ignited. She ran up and down the hall screaming, and then bolted into the street enveloped in flames.

HELP FOR "STRANDED" ARTISTS.

Lord Curzon has sent £25 to the fund for the relief of the performers thrown out of work by the abandonment of the "Romance of India" spectacle at Edin's Court.

A distress committee of the performers affected has been formed, and will distribute the funds received for relief, under the supervision of Miss May Boothroy, the secretary of the local branch of the Amalgamated Musicians' Union. (Photograph on page 3.)

HOTEL GENIUS.

Training of Britons for Profession Said To Be Faulty.

Are Britons "duffers" at hotel-keeping, and if so, why?

The question has been raised by Mr. William Towle, hotel manager of the Midland Railway Company, who has declared that "the genius of the English people does not lie in the direction of hotel-keeping."

"It is the training that is at fault," said Mr. E. J. Crawford, manager of the Buckingham Palace Hotel, to The Daily Mirror yesterday.

"A man must know the business thoroughly to be a successful manager. He cannot learn it in the reception office. Things are better now, but until quite recently the hotel business was looked down upon in England."

"A young fellow was perhaps put into the office of a hotel company with the idea that he might rise to be a manager some day, but he never learnt the kitchen and service side of the business."

"Consequently when a manager was needed, the proprietors would get a man from abroad."

"For one thing, only the manager can control the chef. A chef may be extravagant, in which case the profits are eaten up; or he may be too economical, and customers miss the refinement and originality they desire."

Mr. F. W. Kaiser, manager of the Hotel Cecil, gave The Daily Mirror his views.

"There are Englishmen being properly trained now for this profession, but the foresight was lacking twenty years ago."

"I would not bring my son up to the business unless he showed special aptitude for it. Enormous patience is needed. There are continual pin-pricks. The work is incessant."

MISSING GIRL WASHED UP BY SEA.

Miss Jessie McCann, whose body was washed up by the sea during the great storm along the coast of New Jersey. Her disappearance caused a great sensation, as it was believed that she had been kidnapped by men engaged in a nefarious traffic. She was a teacher and belonged to Brooklyn.

EMPLOYER'S STORY OF ATTACK.

On a charge of attempting to murder Mr. Harry Schneider, one of the principals of the firm of S. Schneider and Sons, of Whitechapel, by whom he was employed, Maurice Newstead, a cap cutter, was remanded yesterday at Old-street Police Court. Detective Albert Hanley, who arrested accused, stated that Mr. Harry Schneider, in the presence of prisoner, said:

"He had called this morning to see one of the principals. I went, and the prisoner handed me this envelope. I opened it, and was about to read it, when I saw the prisoner point a revolver at me. I heard it click two or three times, and I struggled with him. He knocked him up against the partition. He then struck me about the head with the revolver. Others of my staff came and got him in the office."

On the way to the station, prisoner said: "It is not my revolver. A man gave it to me who used to work with me."

ARMY CANTEN SCANDAL.

War Office Expected to Take Action Against Civilians—Alleged Bribery.

Important developments are expected to take place shortly in connection with what has become known as the Army canteen scandal.

It will be remembered that a general court-martial was ordered to assemble at Wellington Barracks on December 8 for the trial of five officers on charges connected with the management of Army canteens.

This court-martial was ordered, according to the official announcement,

As the result of the special investigation which has been conducted recently, with a view to testing the accuracy of allegations made in various quarters as to the existence of a system of bribery and corruption in regard to the conduct of canteens in the Army.

To the surprise of everybody, however, the court-martial was abandoned at the last moment, the official reason being that the jurisdiction was too limited.

Since then a secret investigation into the scandal has been made by Treasury officials, and The Daily Mirror understands that, as a result, proceedings are shortly to be taken against certain officers and private individuals, with a view to a public investigation of the charges.

The precise method of procedure has not yet been decided upon, but, in all probability, summonses will be issued and made returnable at Bow-street Police Court.

The names of the officers who were to have appeared before the court-martial are:—

Captain Fowler, Quartermaster 1st Batt. Irish Guards, Lanchester; Theobald, Quartermaster 3rd Batt. Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders.

Lieutenant W. J. Armstrong, Quartermaster Norfolk Regiment.

Major F. Walker, Quartermaster Guards' Depot, Caterham.

Lieutenant G. R. Burton, Quartermaster 4th (Queen's Own) Hussars.

All the above-named officers have risen from the ranks.

GOLDEN STRAWBERRIES.

Fruit at £2 per lb—Apples and Tomatoes Much Dearer.

High prices are being commanded for several fruits at Covent Garden at present, The Daily Mirror was told yesterday.

Tomatoes and apples are particularly expensive, and £2 a pound was asked for fresh strawberries which arrived in London yesterday from hot-houses in the south of France.

The appearance of the strawberries, however, scarcely gave the impression of being very delicious.

People nowadays, said a retailer, insist upon having all the best fruits on the market, and do not mind what they have to pay so long as the fruit is out of season.

We rarely have any difficulty in disposing of out-of-season fruit or vegetables.

London, indeed, seems to have become the world's centre for out-of-season foods.

A "bundle" of four dozen tomatoes from the Canary Isles is fetching 17s. wholesale, as against 10s. last year. A big dealer told The Daily Mirror that higher prices for apples were due to a big shortage in the supply from the western part of the United States.

A case of the best apples from the States, weighing 36lbs., is costing 12s. per case now, he said, as compared with 7s. last year.

ALL HIS EMPLOYEES REMEMBERED

Sir George Barham, chairman of the Dairy Supply Co. Ltd., and of the Express Dairy Co. Ltd., a former Mayor of Hampshire, whose will was proved yesterday at £259,222, left two bequests of 1,000 guineas each for distribution among the employees of the companies in question.

He also left bequests of shares to a number of officials of the companies, and legacies to private servants and carmen, including twenty-five guineas to Tom Taylor, a Hampshire omnibus-driver.

PRICE OF PRESTIGE.

Zabern Officers Tell of Arrest of "Suspected Laughers."

'POSITIVELY PROVOKING.'

Truly Gilbertian was the evidence at the court-martial of Colonel Von Reuter and Lieutenant Schad, of the 30th Division of the German Army, which began yesterday in Strasburg in connection with the Zabern affair.

In his evidence Colonel Von Reuter said that on November 28, when he ordered Lieutenant Schad to lead out the troops, the streets were black with people. There might, he admitted in cross-examination, have been fifty or 100.

He further said that he thought it would have been a good thing if blood had flowed, as he was defending the prestige and honour of the army. Lieutenant Schad was even more amusing.

He arrested a bank clerk Cahn, he said, because, though he did not actually see him laugh, he suspected Cahn of laughing at him!

"THE ARMY'S HONOUR."

STRASBURG, Jan. 5.—The trial began here to-day before a court-martial of the 30th Division of Colonel Von Reuter and Lieutenant Schad on charges connected with the Zabern affair.

The indictment accuses Colonel Von Reuter of having illegally ordered the arrest of several officers at Zabern, of infringing the liberty of the subject—the latter offence is only punishable by imprisonment—and of inducing others to commit that offence. Lieutenant Schad is charged with the last-named offence, with ill-treatment and with breach of domestic peace.

There were 115 witnesses in attendance, including all the officers of the 90th Regiment.

Colonel Von Reuter declared that all that had been done by his subordinates of all ranks had been done wholly and solely in obedience to his orders. He took, he said, the whole responsibility.

He found on inquiry that friction and brawling had occurred in the past between the military and civilians.

Describing the incidents of November 28, Colonel Von Reuter stated that he ordered Lieutenant Schad to lead out the troops. The street was black with people, who were packed together, and were insulting the soldiers.

LIEUTENANT SCHAD

The President: About how many people were there?

Colonel Von Reuter: Forty or fifty, perhaps a hundred. I stood by the side of the lieutenant in order to give the order to fire if needful. There was, however, no necessity, for they crowd ran.

The district administrator had asked him whether he would let it come to bloodshed, and he had replied: "Yes, blood may flow, and in certain circumstances it would be a good thing that blood should flow, for we are defending the prestige and honour of the whole army."

He was not conscious of having contravened the law. As to the views of jurists, he had replied: "Here is where jurisprudence ends," and it had been on the tip of his tongue to say "Mars rules the hour."

The examination of Lieutenant Schad, who is twenty-one years of age, supplied the crowded court with several interludes of merriment.

His orders were, he said, to arrest and interrogate the persons who were shouting.

"The first I arrested," continued the witness, "was the bank clerk Cahn, who laughed at me."

"Did you see him laugh?" inquired the President.

"No, but I suspected him of laughing," answered the witness.

When we cleared the street the workmen went away quietly, but the gentlemen from the court-house refused. The Public Prosecutor was positively provocative. (Laughter.)

Herr Kalisch, the magistrate, told me I had nothing to say to him. Naturally, I arrested him. We arrested everybody we suspected of insulting us.

"As the people were too cowardly to insult us to our faces, and the worst elements hid themselves in the crowd, we had to be guided by presumption. I was obliged to force open a number of front doors."

—Reuter.

MILLIONS OF BEAUTIFUL HEADS OF HAIR!

All Grown by Two Minutes' Daily
"Harlene Hair-Drill."

GRAND FREE OFFER OF EVERYTHING NEEDED FOR BANISHING BALDNESS AND GROWING
LUXURIANT, HEALTHY HAIR.

In the whole long history of toilet-methods there has never been anything approaching the success of "Harlene Hair-Drill."

The leaders of Society, stage favourites, West-End Clubmen, all practise it every day, and know how well they are repaid, as do millions of men, women and children members of the great middle-class. These yield to none in refinement, culture and good looks.

GREAT HAIR-GROWING SUCCESS OF "HARLENE."

Why is "Harlene Hair-Drill" so popular? It succeeds in banishing Scurf, in removing Irritation of the Scalp, in curing Baldness, in growing glossy, luxuriant hair upon the head of everyone who uses it.

"Hair-Drill" will make your hair beautiful and luxuriant, too.

THE SEASON FOR HAIR-DRILL.

Just now is the very season for "Hair-drill." The bitterness of winter is very trying to the hair, which needs now, more than at any other period of the year, careful attention if it is to be unimpaired, to say nothing of being improved.

It must be remembered that the hair is one of the most sensitive and delicate portions of the human frame, and that if it is neglected at any time, particularly the present, it will lose its gloss and colour and commence to fall out. But (and you can prove this free to-day) your hair will benefit by the stimulating, health-giving influence of "Hair-drill," just as plants and flowers do under the mingled showers and sunshine of Spring.

GIVES YOUR HAIR THESE TWO HEALTH NECESSITIES

"Harlene Hair-Drill" gives to weak hair the two things they most require—food and nourishment. It nourishes the hair from the roots upwards, it stimulates the growth, it dissolves scurf from the scalp, it causes irritation to cease.

"Harlene Hair-Drill" has grown—and is growing—millions of beautiful heads of hair.

Whenever you see a child whose hair is specially long and glossy, depend upon it "Harlene Hair-Drill" is practised.

Whenever you see a lady famous for the beauty and massed luxuriance of her hair, depend upon it she regularly "drills" her hair with Edwards' "Harlene" according to the secret rules of "Hair-Drill."

Mr. Edwards offers to-day as a Free Gift these secret rules, with everything required for carrying them out.

The man whose hair is free from the slightest trace of baldness and faded colour practises "Harlene Hair-Drill" for two minutes every day.

"HARLENE HAIR-DRILL" CURES ALL HAIR-AILMENTS.

Amongst the forms of Hair-Poverty quickly and permanently cured by "Harlene Hair-Drill" are:

- Total Baldness (even of years' standing).
- Partial or Patchy Baldness.
- Thinning of Hair over the temples.
- Hair which falls out.
- Hair which splits at the ends.
- Dull, dead-looking, lustre-lacking Hair.
- Dry, brittle Hair.
- Greasy, inflexible Hair.

- Deposits of Scurf and Dandruff.
- Discoloured Hair.
- Irritation of the Scalp.

This great toilet method, by its nourishing and cleansing properties, makes and keeps the hair bright and glossy, in all its former, stamina, health, luxuriance, and beauty.

And not the least valuable point is that these results are obtainable for only 2 minutes at it each day.

DON'T MISS THIS GREAT GIFT OPPORTUNITY.

Fill up the form printed below, and send it, with 3d. in stamps to pay the return postage, to the Edwards' Harlene Co., 104, High Holborn, London, W.C. You place yourself under no obligation in doing so, and

THE FREE OUT-FIT COM-PRISES:—

1. A trial bottle of "Harlene," a clear, non-greasy liquid, so richly perfumed, pleasant in use and permanent in effect. "Harlene" makes hair grow full of vitality and vigour.

2. A packet of "Cremes" Home Shampoo Powder, which dissolves scurf, banishes all irritation of the scalp, and prepares the head for "Hair-Drill."

3. The "Hair-Drill" Manual, containing the rules which have made Mr. Edwards' name a household word. It will show you how, by practising this wonderful method only 2 minutes daily, you can grow a crop of hair so luxuriantly abundant that your appearance is immensely improved and many years taken off your apparent age.

The cultivation or maintenance of a healthy head of hair is a worthy ambition for man, woman, and child. So much depends upon it in all spheres of activity.

Nothing mars one's appearance so quickly as scanty hair, and the premature age it imparts to the features is a grave handicap both in business and society.

It is the young and active-looking man who secures the coveted appointments of promotion, the young and fresh-looking woman who secures the homage and admiration so dear to feminine hearts.

Mothers! You are proud of your children's lovely hair. See that it has attention, or the beauty will fade, and they will enter the battle of life handicapped at the very outset.

No matter how beautiful and abundant your hair is now, it will not remain so if neglected.

Men and women whose lives are embittered by premature age in appearance—through hair poverty—should adopt "Hair-drill." No case is too bad for it to work a radical transformation in your appearance, for Mr. Edwards has proved, in a series of exhaustive experiments, that hair can be grown at any age.

Commence it free to-day, by using the coupon below.

"Harlene" in 1s., 2s. 6d., and 4s. 6d. bottles, and "Cremes" in 1s. packets of 7 powders (single powders 2d.), are obtainable of all chemists and stores; or direct, post free, on remittance. Foreign postage extra. Cheques and Postal Orders should be crossed.

NAME

THIS MORNING'S GOSSIP

Lady Linlithgow.

Lady Linlithgow, who is not very strong just now, is remaining in Scotland after spending Christmas and New Year at Hopetoun House, the beautiful family residence of the Marquis of Linlithgow overlooking the Firth of Forth, and within hearing of the big guns that may one day be booming at Rosyth. Lady Linlithgow, who is the younger daughter of Sir Frederick Milner, is, like her husband, unusually tall and good-looking—she was the tallest of all the tall brides at Court—takes a pride in all things Scottish, especially Hopetoun House, with its gardens laid out in imitation of Versailles, and the "royal" entrance which is never opened except for a reigning Sovereign or a bride and bridegroom of the family. The twin sons of Lady Linlithgow are said to take after their father in good looks.

Duchess of Westminster as Actress.

The Duchess of Westminster, who is to take part in the entertainment being arranged in the Brighton Dome on January 30 in aid of Princess Alexander of Teck's Day Nursery at Deptford, is making quite a name as an amateur actress. The other evening at private theatricals at Wynyard Park, the residence of Lord Londonderry, her acting in a comedy part drew upon her high praise.

Lord Murray On the Slate Again.

This time next week Lord Murray will, in all likelihood, be on the slate at the offices of Messrs. Pearson, in Parliament-street. This slate records the presence or absence of the principal officials, and Lord Murray's name comes second—next to that of Lord Cowdray.

Wealthy Hotel Porters.

Some of the West End hotel porters, I hear, are men to be envied from the point of view of money they make. They tell of one lucky porter who can sign his £1,000 cheque. Hotel patrons who knew him well were in the habit of giving him good tips for speculation.

Noise as a Narcotic.

A well-known airman has an extraordinary fancy for sleeping in the noisiest room in an hotel. He says he can sleep better there.

Belated Christmas Presents.

At least twenty shops in the West End have still got their window contents labelled "Suitable for Christmas presents."

Green Room Club, Please Note.

Mrs. John Billington, who has just entered upon her ninetieth year, has many amusing reminiscences. She thinks the modern actor has an easier time than his predecessor. A few years ago she told a story about an actor who complained to the then manager of the Theatre Royal at Glasgow that, owing to his being worked so hard, he never had a chance to see the country.

Mrs. John Billington.

The manager at once called a scene-shifter to let down a third drop. "There, sir," he said, "there is green grass for you, sir, and trees for you, sir, and miles of country for you, sir. What more can you want?"

Elusive Mr. Corri.

Everybody wishes Mr. Eugene Corri, the famous boxing referee, a speedy recovery from his illness. Mr. Corri is probably the most difficult man to find at luncheon in the whole of the City of London. Everybody—newsboys, policemen, cabdrivers, messengers and City men—all know him well by sight. I once spent nearly two hours searching for the corner, "Mr. Corri has just gone round the corner," "Mr. Corri left a minute ago," "Mr. Corri may come here in ten minutes"—these are some of the answers one gets to inquiries as to his whereabouts.

The Pantomime Dinner.

The forthcoming O. P. Club pantomime dinner should be one of the most interesting events of the season. Principal boys and girls are coming from all quarters. In many instances provincial favourites will have to do some rapid travelling in order to be present at the dinner in London without missing a performance.

Still Picturesque.

Mr. Keir Hardie, who has been complaining that Mr. Lloyd George has stolen the Labour Party's land programme, is one of the best known parliamentary figures to the general public. From that far away day when he first appeared at Westminster in a labourer's tweed suit Mr. Hardie has always contrived to be picturesque. Even his political enemies will admit that; and in this age we should be grateful to anybody who lends a little colour to our political life.

Aias, Poor Wopsl

Ripe raspberries have just been gathered in the West-end-super-Mare, and pansies, auriculas, marguerites and wallflowers, in addition to roses, are blooming freely in many of the gardens. A spray of hawthorn was picked in full bloom, and a wasp was killed on New Year's Day.

Meditations in Cheapside.

Canon Masterman has introduced a pleasing innovation into the church of St. Mary-le-Bow, in Cheapside. During the last few weeks a small library of theological and devotional works has been added to the church, and the books are available for reading by any visitor.

The Comment Sarcastic.

Mr. Josef Holbrooke, entering into details about the programmes he has arranged, writes: "I rejoice that I have found two more deluded young musicians in the persons of Edward Mitchell and Richard Cleveland, neither of whom have yet had a taste of our countrymen's indifference! If they can get over this, they should be able to get over anything."

Devonshire House's Privilege.

Devonshire House, Piccadilly, enjoys a rare privilege. It has a pillar-box fixed in the wall of the courtyard, and thus may be said to be in direct communication with the Post Office.

A Friend of His Majesty.

There is only one stage doorkeeper in England who possesses an autographed portrait of King George, and he is to be found at a musical comedy theatre in Shaftesbury-avenue. It is signed simply "George, 1887," in a round schoolboyish caligraphy. The proud possessor served with his Majesty and the late Duke of Clarence on the Bacchante and the Thrush, and used to make coffee for the royal brothers. Frequently, he tells me, he partook of a cup with them in the early morning.

A Modest Musician.

Raoul Pugno, the well-known pianist, who has just died in his sixty-second year in Moscow, will be missed by a wide circle of friends. A Frenchman by birth he was an exceedingly popular man with people of all nationalities. He had none of the airs and affectations which musicians too frequently adopt as evidences of genius.

Nonsense and the Tango.

A great deal of nonsense keeps appearing in print about the tango, and all sorts of people whose opinions are of no social importance whatever are continually airing their views in the Press. People seem to forget that there is a vast amount of difference between the tango as danced on the stage and at a private ball. It is just the same with the valse. One sees expert dancers at the various music-halls and theatres dancing the valse in a way that no private individual would ever dream of doing. It depends absolutely on the dancer as to whether the dance becomes vulgar and immoral.

The Tango Can Be Nice.

There is surely nothing to object to in the dancing of the tango itself. It may be seen any night at a private dance executed in a highly decorous manner. One might just as well say that the schottische, the polka, are un-English and undignified dances, and these can be made very objectionable.

Fresh Dances Wanted.

The dances referred to were performed in the Victorian days, and no one thought of complaining then. As a matter of fact, we are sadly in need of fresh dances in London ballrooms. One would like to see a change from the ordinary valse and polka. The gallop has been dead many years, and one never sees the mazurka or schottische danced nowadays, except perhaps at servants' balls or very informal country parties. Even then no one under the age of forty or fifty would be able to execute them, as they are no longer taught.

At Home and Abroad.

How the Pankhurst family is scattered! Mrs. Pankhurst is in Switzerland, Miss Christabel is still in Paris, and Miss Sylvia is back in Holloway Gaol. It does not seem as if there will ever be a Pankhurst family reunion in England while the "Cat and Mouse" Act is in force. One thing the Act has done—it has sent many of the mice out of the country.

Miss Fritz Schell, the American light opera star, who has just been married for the third time. Mr. George Anderson was the bridegroom.

The Duchess of Manchester.

An American Duchess

A good way to spend Christmas and New Year, said an American friend to me, is to run over to gay New York and spend the festive indigestive season there. The Duke and Duchess of Manchester are paying their annual visit to America just now, and spent Christmas in New York. On arrival Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt entertained them with rose honours at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. The guests sat at six tables in the gorgeous ballroom overlooking the lounge. In the centre of each table were two huge mounds of pink and white roses. The Duchess of Manchester, who was a Miss Helena Zimmerman, is a most charming type of American, and has taken an important place in Anglo-American society.

Blind, but At Work.

A familiar figure in the City of a morning is a well-known business man, quite blind, being led to his offices by an attendant.

London Subways—A Hint.

The London subways would undoubtedly be more popular in wet weather if some arrangement could be made for the steps down into them not retaining little pools of water.

The Late Mr. Bijou.

By the death of Mr. Peter Bijou the variety profession has lost another talented performer. Mr. Bijou, whose real name was Cannon, started life with an ambition to be a jockey. Mr. Bijou was a sort of pocket Adonis and immensely popular.

Woman Playbroker.

Miss Elizabeth Marbury has the unique distinction of being the only woman playbroker in the world. She maintains offices in London, Paris and New York. She acts as the intermediary between playwrights and managers, and her keenness in detecting popularity in a play is well known in the dramatic world of both continents. Her business policy is to act only for the author, and her fee is a percentage upon royalties. This makes the author's interest hers, and her income varies with his. They succeed or fail together. As a rule, Miss Marbury spends her winters in New York and her summers in London and Paris.

COMPLEXION AND SKIN TROUBLES CAN BE CURED

Complexion Outfit
Sent Free by Post.

ABSOLUTELY FREE OFFER.

The only thing for the Complexion.

There are three things which ruin the complexion:—

- (1) Improper diet.
- (2) The misuse of dangerous cosmetics.
- (3) Bad soap and hard water.

With regard to diet, it is not necessary to deprive yourself of the things you enjoy. You can eat and drink pretty well anything if you obey one simple rule. The rule is this—Never eat or drink anything which makes your face flush. If your face flushes after eating or drinking it is a sure sign that you have taken something which does not suit your constitution, and which is injurious to your complexion.

Cosmetics, ointments, "skin-foods" are all bad for the skin. You must avoid them.

The washing of the face is very important. Thousands of complexions are ruined by improper washing. Terribly disfiguring rashes are often produced by hard water and bad soap. You should use plenty of hot, soft water, and plenty of good soap made into a lather. Every particle of soap should then be removed with a clean sponge.

When you have a good complexion you can retain it by obeying these simple rules.

But how are you to get a good complexion in the first place?

You must take something which will purify your blood and draw all impurities away from the skin-surface and expel them from the system.

Only Vegetine Pills will do this.

There is nothing so good for the complexion as Vegetine Pills. They remove every kind of skin blemish. This has been proved by thousands. But I want to prove it to you, and I want to prove it now.

THIS IS MY OFFER.

If you suffer from any kind of skin trouble, if you want to improve your complexion, I will send you ABSOLUTELY FREE my Beauty Outfit, consisting of one box of Vegetine Pills and one tablet of Vegetine Soap.

WHY I SEND THE SOAP WITH THE PILLS.

I want you to reap the full benefit of the Vegetine Complexion Beauty Treatment. To do this you must use the right kind of soap.

Vegetine Soap is the best for you because, while it has all the advantages of the best toilet soap, it also possesses a curative value. A bad soap will undo half the good that Vegetine Pills do you; but Vegetine Soap assists the pills in their work of purifying the skin.

My advice, then, is that while taking Vegetine Pills you should use only Vegetine Soap.

Remember, I will send you a sample of both the Pills and the Soap Absolutely Free.

REMARKABLE CURES.

The cures effected by Vegetine Pills are really remarkable.

Sensitive people who for years have suffered untold misery owing to their bad complexion have in a few weeks obtained a perfectly clear, satinsmooth skin, simply by the use of Vegetine Pills.

They are a blood cleanser of extraordinary potency, and when used the following face blemishes rapidly disappear:—

Pimples,
Greasy Skin,
Skin Roughness,
Spots,
Boils,
Acne,

Blackheads,
Lack of Colour,
Eruptions,
Eczema,
Sallowiness,
Pasty Complexion.

A SUGGESTION.

If you suffer from any complexion trouble whatever, adopt this suggestion: Make one trial of Vegetine Pills. You can get the Pills at any chemist. Buy a box TO-DAY, or send for the Free Beauty Outfit, enclosing only one penny stamp for postage, using the coupon printed below. In return you will receive a sample box of Vegetine Pills and a tablet of Vegetine Soap. Follow the directions, and in three days you will notice an improvement. In ten or fourteen days you will be astounded by the change for the better in your appearance. And in a very short time you will have an absolutely perfect skin.

VEGETINE PILLS and VEGETINE SOAP are sold by all chemists, including BOOTS, TAYLORS, T. WHITE CO., LEWIS AND BURROWS, PARKES, etc. the Pills at 1s. 14d., 2s. 9d. (3 times the quantity), and 4s. 6d. (6 times the quantity), the Soap at 9d. per tablet, or direct, post free. But you can use the coupon printed below, and let us send you free samples of both the Pills and the Soap.

COUPON FOR FREE BEAUTY OUTFIT.

CUTTING THE CAKE.

THE children of the house were persuaded to be moderately quiet last night, after they had played a good deal and eaten far too much; while an elderly aunt endeavoured to make clear to them the origin and meaning of Epiphany—the most fascinating of all the symbolical feasts of the Church in winter.

"When we were young, children," she began; and she explained that they had a great Twelfth-night cake, to cover the whole table in the hall, which was lit in those days—call them benighted if you like—by wax candles which cast a glimmer over the mahogany.

But none of the children noticed the glimmer, because the fine old table was then not so old, and, besides, nobody hunted antiquities then and candles were used by decent people everywhere for such occasions as this. The delight of the eyes that evening was rather the snowy surface of the cake, dotted here and there with flowers and crowns, to remind all the pious folk of the three kings of Cologne, Melchior, Jaspas, Balthazar, who brought gold, frankincense, and myrrh at the appearance of the Holy Child. "For you must know, children," said the aunt, "that Epiphany means appearance."

But here one of the boys nudged one of the girls, who was a favourite of the old lady, and the forward minx (as in the old lady's day she would have been called) remarked: "I say, auntie, never mind about that: let's hear more about the cake."

So she went on: "We all sat down at the table—I can see the lights now—and our good papa brought out a large silver-handled knife. How we all gazed at him as he thrust it into the cake! And each received a huge slice—with citron like the spices, embrowned like the gold, for you must remember, children, that the Three Wise Men

"More about the cake," shouted an uncontrollable treble!

"Well, the littlest girl of the family was given her slice first, and, meanwhile, old Susan handed round the sweet wine, spiced like the offerings the wizards brought."

"Who was Susan?" said another voice. "She was our housekeeper."

"Well, what happened next?"

"Next, we ate the cake, of course, and drank the wine, and then drew for 'characters,' and then told fortunes, and then danced a little before bed."

"Was that all?" said the children in chorus, "what a slow time!"

"It was a lovely evening," said their aunt, "but in those days, children, we were accustomed to have far fewer such pleasures than children have now, and I must tell you."

But, foreseeing a sermon, the elder children quietly slid away, while two of the youngest remained to keep the subject off the magi and to keep it on the cake.

A THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY.

It is not difficult to know God, provided we do not force ourselves to define Him.—Leubert.

THROUGH "THE MIRROR."

THE GREATEST CURSE.

THE greatest and most common curse of to-day is, in my opinion, selfishness. The lack of self-control—otherwise the love of self—gives rise to all sorts of crime—viz.: Robbery, cruelty, drunkenness, and the rest.

A BOHEMIAN.

THE greatest curse of the present generation is the pernicious influence exercised by preceding generations.

Having involved all the English-speaking world in the most hopeless muddle and confusion—economical, political and moral—they are now, through their last survivors, the parents and middle-aged people of to-day, attempting to transmit their sordid short-sightedness and selfishness to their descendants, to the final suppression of

WHO SEES GHOSTS?

CONCERNING your query in Saturday's issue, "Dinner-table Topics"—Why is it that people have never seen ghosts themselves?—the answer is that those who really see them do not care to speak about it for years afterwards. There is no shock at the time—it only comes with realisation. You may mention it apropos of something else, and people who love sensation repeat what you have said.

That explains the situation.

L. A.

WINDFALLS.

I FEAR that your correspondent, "W. F. R." of to-day's (Thursday) issue has taken the letter of "Aurea Medicinas" too literally.

May I be permitted to make a suggestion to his father as to the best way he can possibly expend

THE TANGO DOOMED: SOME OPINIONS OF WELL-KNOWN PEOPLE.

MR. TWENTYSTUN THINKS IT A SILLY DANCE.

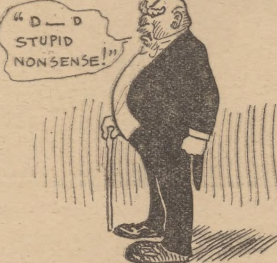

LADY METHUSELAH CONDEMNS IT WITH VALSES AND POLKAS AS NEW-FANGLER RUBBISH.

MISS MEANYFOOT DOES NOT THINK IT AT ALL SUITED TO OUR ENGLISH CHARACTERISTICS.

GENERAL GOUTYTOES STRONGLY DISAPPROVES OF IT.

MISS PASSEE WALLFLOWER SAYS SHE WILL NEVER DANCE IT (AND THE ODDS ARE VERY LONG THAT SHE WON'T BE TEMPTED TO CHANGE HER MIND).

MISS GRACE JOLLY THINKS IT'S SIMPLY TOPPING.

A few of the people who would not think of dancing the tango—perhaps because they couldn't—and one who does dance it—perhaps because she can. It is often found that the objectors to these forms of amusement come from the incapacitated class which rails against anything that they have visibly outgrown themselves.—(By Mr. W. K. Haselden.)

the really great and noble ideas prevalent nowadays among young people of every class.

In these alone lies the only hope of retrieving the unutterable folly of our parents and grandparents; through them alone can we be extricated from the toils of a social system which defies every law of political economy, morality, religion and general prosperity.

TWENTY, AND STILL HOPEFUL.

1913-1914.

HAVE any of your readers who do a great deal of writing ever managed to date their correspondence absolutely correctly, as far as the year is concerned, during the first three months of a new year?

I have tried, but never succeeded, the fatal date of the past year always creeping in sooner or later.

YEARLY.

MILITARY LANGUAGE.

THE excuse made by "Militaire" with regard to a abominable language that it soothes the temper and "gets it over" was very plausible.

But why is it necessary in the course of conversation to use bad words? Would not a story told without as many swear words thrown in to emphasize certain parts be quite as interesting?

A. S.

some of his windfalls? If "W. F. R." father were to have his son taught a little more English grammar, I am quite certain that this would be money well spent, and that his son would be very grateful to him in after life.

With regard to windfalls, I may add that the effect of them depends entirely on the character of the people who receive them.

I have known very poor, hard-working and steady people greatly benefited by them, and, on the other hand, poor people absolutely ruined by them, because they have not known how to spend the money to advantage.

NOM DE GUERRE.

SONG.

For her gait, if she be walking:
Be she sitting, I desire her
For her state's sake; and admire her
For her wit if she be talking:
Gait and state and wit approve her:
For which all and each I love her.

Be she sullen I commend her
For a modest, Be she merry,
For a kind one her prefer I.
Briefly, everything doth lead her
So much grace, and so approve her,
That for everything I love her.

—WILLIAM BROWNE (1643).

IDEAL MEN.

Our Readers' Views on What the Modern Woman Expects in a Husband.

I HAVE a young friend whose popularity with women is a constant surprise to him—for he is neither remarkably handsome, rich, nor self-assertive. His general character may be summarised as "erratic."

Wherein lies the strong appeal which he undoubtedly makes to almost every woman he is at all intimate with? To be sure, he is unobtrusively versatile, a mixture of the artist and the athlete; but this I take to be immaterial. Personal charm, again, is a thing not to be sneezed at, but needs considerable space to be treated at all adequately. I have often heard it said that manner is more important than anything else; and here again I could say much. But suffice it that my friend's appeal to women is through what, for want of a better word, I will call his temperament—passionate though uncertain, kind under a reserved manner, eloquent and disappointing by turns, and most decidedly romantic. I may add that he has been assured of this repeatedly by many different types of women.

The new ideal demands perfect fitness, comradeship, equality and self-respect between the sexes.

Is it too much to expect?

NOWITCH.

YOUR recent fascinating correspondence on the attraction some "bad" men undoubtedly exercise over women prompts me to ask whether it is not perfectly true to say that the qualities women like in husbands are not those they admire in their friends or "flirts."

Women are not quite so silly as some of your correspondents make out. They will be ready enough to laugh and flirt at dinner with a nice-looking man. Yet often they will not marry the attractive one. Many women have the sense to marry for the solid qualities that last. And as women grow up to a greater freedom and a greater emancipation from foolish dependence on men, the day of the flirting man will be over.

IN answer to your recent query: "Do bad bachelors make good husbands?" may I say that it all depends on what you call a good husband?

A steady husband? Or one who is, all his life, like a lover to the woman he has married?

Let your women readers answer that. MERE MAN.

Bryanston-street.

AS a man who has been in the society of the opposite sex a great deal, and one who has a good knowledge of their average temperament, I would like to give "Just One" a little advice.

He should cultivate his character to a degree of sympathy, discretion and civility. He will then find that his society would be more tasteful to the opposite sex.

A. C. R.

TO-DAY'S DINNER-TABLE TOPICS.

Whether it is better to study the character of the person you intend to marry, or not. Mrs. Sarah Bernhardt seems to think not, since she has been saying—or implying—that young people now use too much of one another before marriage, and familiarly breeds contempt, so they don't marry after all.

Twelfth Night parties and the customs of the day—a day now nearly forgotten in England.

More ghost stories.

IN MY GARDEN.

JAN. 5.—It is generally a mistake to try and grow grass on a very steep bank, as it is troublesome to cut and the turf cannot be kept in a good condition. But many pretty subjects will do well on steep banks.

They will soon form a neat evergreen carpet and give no trouble, while the Wickstrania rosea will be most attractive. Some old tree stumps should be first dotted about the ground (these will prevent the shoots from touching the ground), and the roses then planted about six apart. A. BURTON, Dorothy Perkins, Hiawatha, Excerpta and Jersey Beauty are good sorts.

NELSON'S SUCCESSORS: TRAINING BOYS TO BECOME SAILORS.

A hot bath follows overhauling by the doctor.

He then dons uniform.

And is taken to school for an examination.

He must, of course, learn to swim.

And to become a "handyman." He therefore mends his bedcover.

And marks all his own clothes.

Though the old "wooden walls of England" have been superseded as fighting machines by the mighty £2,000,000 Dreadnoughts, they are still made to serve a useful purpose, and are used as training ships for boys who wish to enter the senior Service. The pictures were taken at Devonport, and show boys who will doubtless prove worthy successors to Drake and Nelson on the threshold of their careers. Between 1,400 and 1,500 are always in training on these old ships.—(Daily Mirror photographs.)

"UP ABOVE THE WORLD SO HIGH": MEN WHO HAVE A CONTEMPT FOR DANGER.

"There's room enough for my feet."

"There's nothing in it, really."

"Absolutely 'dead easy,' this."

"It's only part of the day's work."

The housebreaker (of the non-burglariou variety), who is apparently always courting death by perching himself on one brick high above the street, is, it seems, the last person who ever gives a thought to danger. While the passer-by trembles for his safety he goes calmly on with his work, and when some of the men who are demolishing King's College Hospital were questioned on the subject of risk they smiled at the mere suggestion. Their replies are quoted above.—(Daily Mirror photographs.)

LONDON'S BIG THIRST: CLEARING HOUSE FOR BOTTLES.

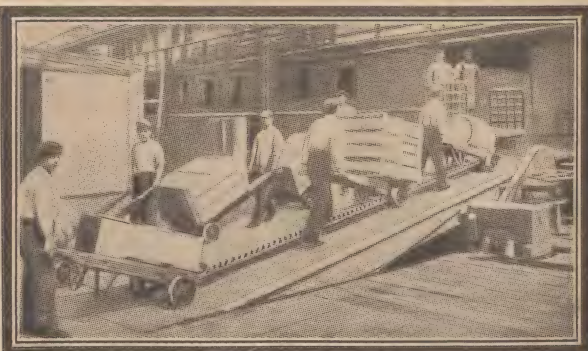

London's thirst is not easily slaked, and millions of bottles are dealt with annually at the clearing-house to which the "empties" are taken. The men are seen sorting bottles and patent screw stoppers.—(Daily Mirror photographs.)

"WHY I AM NOT A METHODICAL WIFE."

Woman Who Claims to Give Husband a Home, Not an Office.

DOES SHE SPEND LESS?

I am not a methodical wife.

Quite frankly and in no way ashamed, I admit not only that I do not keep accounts, not only that I do not follow any known system in housekeeping, but also that I have not the slightest intention of altering my ways.

Further, when my friends ask me why I make this stand my reply is that I give my husband a home, not an office, and think I best help him by being his wife and not a domestic book-keeper.

Shortly before I was married my fiancé told me that he would like to make me a regular allowance for my private needs. I said that I would prefer to come to him for what I needed, and that I believed I should be able to manage on much less than what he offered.

AN ALLOWANCE IS ALWAYS SPENT!

This was rather more than three years ago—the fourth anniversary is now well in sight. My plan has been successful. When I need a hat or costume I ask my husband for it. Naturally I choose the right time, and I am not foolish enough to discuss winter furs just at the time that he is telling me business is bad.

My married women friends are horrified. They point out to me that I am making myself "dependent" on my husband, and that it is undignified to have to ask for every penny. Just as if it were any worse than having an allowance!

The only difference between the two systems is that an allowance is uneconomical for both husband and wife. It is the rule rather than the exception that the wife spends every penny of her allowance whatever it may be, and whether the clothes are really needed or not.

Other women of my acquaintance have "perfect" systems of housekeeping. They will weigh out their servants' food allowance to the ounce. They can tell you on Monday morning everything they are going to eat and do for the rest of the week. They convert themselves into machines.

"BALANCE IN HAND" IN PURSE.

Personally I will not run my house on "business lines." I try to arrange "surprise breakfasts" for my husband. Thanks to my business-like and never keeping records of menus, I am always trying to find out new dishes. I don't say that I am always successful. I have my failures, but I have my successes.

And then—perhaps this is the best reason of all—how delightful to be free of accounts. Very few women really like having anything to do with figures, and it is a blessed thing not to have to spend hours trying to remember odd pence. When I want to find out my balance in hand I look in my purse. B.D.

NOTABLE ENGAGEMENTS.

Miss Monica Dansey, daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel E. M. Dansey, who is to marry Mr. Arthur Whitworth. (Swaine)

Miss Mary G. Truscott, daughter of Sir George Wyatt Truscott, ex-Lord Mayor of London. She is to marry Mr. A. Sydney Waller. (Swaine)

TO-DAY'S BRIDE AND HER DRESS.

Very beautiful is the wedding dress to be worn to-day by Lady Elizabeth Northcote, second daughter of the Earl and Countess of Iddesleigh, who is to be married to Mr. Randolph Bruce, of Windermere, British Columbia, at Upton Pyne, Devon.

Made of ivory white charmeuse embroidered with pearls, and given a corsage trimmed with pearl and diamond embroidery and the new very pretty silver run lace, which also forms a rippling cascade down the front of the skirt, the dress has a full Court train of ivory brocade woven with silver. It is lined with chiffon and trimmed with tulle, and tulle composes a huge bow at the end of the train.

Items which are very beautiful and noticeable in the bridal attire are the exquisite diamond wings which will be placed in the front of a Roman wreath of orange blossoms, to be worn with the usual veil.

LADIES—A WORD WITH YOU!

You can have a beautiful complexion and the clear, fine skin that all women covet, and the only thing you need use is Pomeroy Skin Food, the triumphant achievement of the greatest of all specialists in women's complexions. It took Mrs. Pomeroy years to arrive at the secret of making a cream that the skin could really absorb, so that its fine cells might be fed. Pomeroy Skin Food was the culminating triumph of her work; and it can be had of any chemist in the eighteenpenny jars, or larger ones. You need only use it once a day for a week to know that what is said above is true. Your looking-glass will prove it. (Advt.)

SKIRT LIKE TURKISH TROUSER LEG.

Curious Effect of the Houppelande Coats,
Definitely Coming Into Favour.

Avenue des Champs Elysées, Paris.

Chère Amie,—I am so frightfully excited that I hardly know what I am writing. We are off to Monte Carlo by the Côte d'Azur Rapide tomorrow morning! Of course, we always knew we were to go some time this spring, but I never imagined it would be so soon. None of our things were ready, but somehow we have managed.

I am sending you a hurried sketch of a most awfully fascinating coat Lilian has just bought at and a little sailor collar made of fitch in the natural tint. Another of the white costumes has a Russian blouse coat, banded in well down on the hips. The lining is cherry-red taffetas, and there are big cherry buttons on the fronts and sleeves. It appears that there is going to be a run on pale blue Liberty cashmere tailor-mades this spring. The particular shade of blue which is just now in favour with the smart Parisiennes is a grey-green-blue not unlike the hedge-sparrow tint. In Liberty cashmere this is charming. A girl I know has a severely plain tailor-made in this colour, and she has ornamented it with a set of lovely buttons which were given to her at Christmas—big transparent horn buttons in a subtle blue shade, with little tracings of filigree one of the big places in the Place Vendôme. It is smart and "comfy," quite the fashionable "houppelande" outline, and made of pure white velours de laine. The collar is black fox, but if you want to be economical black moulton would look almost as effective. Then there is a delicious lining of japonica-pink satin and the big buttons are carved ivory.

A smart military wrap for the Riviera of white velours de laine and black fox.

A friend of Lilian's bought a similar garment in pastel blue duvetyne, with a lining of white satin and collar of taupe. Very chic, I assure you. Mme. Kossile says that these queer houppelande coats are going to be the rage. Just at first the fashion seemed in the balance. People were afraid of the "outline," and I heard several women complaining that the wide hem gave a sort of trouser-effect to the skirt! And, really, there is something in this idea. Even in my sketch the little skirt looks rather like one leg of a Turkish trouser. However, it is certain that these coats are now going to catch on, so invest in one as soon as possible.

I have got three white serge tailor-mades for Monte Carlo. One of these has a long, semi-tight coat lined with pale blue Shantung and a pleated skirt which clings in about my feet in an engaging manner. There are big mother-of-pearl buttons silver wandering over them. I do think these useful, and thoroughly up-to-date, presents are admirable. It is all the fashion nowadays to give birthday and Christmas presents which are as useful as ornamental—sets consisting of coat buttons and an umbrella handle to match, or "sets" of another order which include couthure ornaments and a big waistband buckle. Advice to Mother.

Do not irritate baby's tender skin by washing it with soaps containing free alkali. Use only

PALMOLIVE

This delightful, fragrant, and emollient soap is unexcelled for absolute purity.

Made from Palm and Olive oils it cleanses and nourishes the skin, and so prevents those unsightly rashes frequently caused by soaps of less pure quality.

PALMOLIVE contains no soda, no artificial colouring, no pungent scent—a newly born babe can be safely washed with it.

Ladies desiring to obtain or preserve beautiful complexions will find in PALMOLIVE all that they need for the purpose.

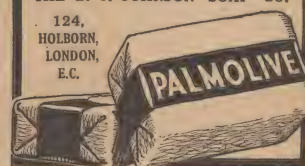

There are no finer skin foods than Palm and Olive oils and when combined in a cake of beautiful pale green PALMOLIVE soap their beneficial action on the skin is amplified.

Tell "Hubby" to try a shave with PALMOLIVE—it will please him.

A liberal sample can be had free, or a large cake of PALMOLIVE can be purchased at the chemist's for 6d., or will be sent post free on receipt of six penny stamps, with name and address.

"COURT OF KINDLY EYES."

Woman Appointed as a Judge in Chicago to Help Erring Girls.

A woman Judge has been appointed in Chicago to preside over "a Court of kindly eyes."

Her mission is to listen to the sad tales told by erring girls who are sent before her and to do all in her power to reclaim them.

Miss Mary M. Bartelme, who was for many years public guardian of Cook County, Illinois, is the new Judge, and she supervises the delinquent girls' department of the Juvenile Court.

Every afternoon half a dozen girls, who in the great majority of instances are between fourteen and sixteen years of age, are conducted before Miss Bartelme and the circumstances of each case are heard in private.

The courtroom is more like the office of the principal of a girls' school. The window-box is filled with blooming plants, wild flowers in Japanese wall vases hang behind the Judge's desk, pictures decorate the walls, and the furniture is homely.

Miss Bartelme is a little woman with clear brown eyes, a sympathetic voice, and a wide knowledge of the world.

She decides what shall be done with each one of the girls in order to save them from degradation, and she has a wonderful way of making the wrong-doers feel that she is there not to punish, but to protect.

EAT MORE MEAT.

Stimulating and Appetising Food Very Needful for Brainworkers.

Eat plenty of meat if you want to feel warm and energetic.

"People who lead sedentary lives require more meat than those performing active muscular labour," says Professor Rubner, a German Privy Councillor.

Those engaged in arduous brainwork must have appetising food, he explains, and vegetables are seldom as appetising as meat.

But, apart from this, meat is stimulating as well as warming. The meat eater, says Dr. Rubner, commonly eats a large proportion of nitrogenous meat in one of his three daily meals, and more carbohydrates (desh formers) in the other two. He has, it has been scientifically noted, a specific burst of energy after the meat meal.

The vegetarian balances his nitrogenous food and carbohydrates at each of his three meals, and therefore has no such burst of energy, which is a comfort and pleasure in itself, stimulating the meat eater to his best work.

As for warmth, the meat eater is comfortable in a temperature of 18deg. (Fahr.) lower than the person fed on carbohydrates can stand.

"The feeling of warmth the meat eater enjoys is not a deception like that produced by alcohol, but proceeds from an actual increase of heat," adds the professor.

"What a glorious moon to-night, Bobby! It's as light as day."

"Yes, Sis, I reckon they must have started using Cherry Blossom Boot Polish up there to make it shine so much!"

HOW TO MAKE HALF-PINT OF THE BEST COUGH SYRUP FOR 2s. 6d.

Famous Specialist's Recipe That Saves About 8/- on Cough Medicine.

As there seems to be a regular epidemic of coughs and colds, the following valuable recipe will be welcomed by many.—Secure from your chemist 1oz. of Parmint (Double Strength), 2s. 6d. worth, take this home and add to it quarter of a pint of hot water and 4oz. of moist or granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day; this will give instant relief, and will usually cure the most obstinate cough within twenty-four hours. It will keep indefinitely, and is extremely valuable in cases of incipient lung troubles. It is strongly recommended by physicians, as its nourishing elements give renewed strength to those who have become weak through prolonged illness.

It is a splendid remedy, too, for influenza, asthma, whooping cough, catarrh, croup, and chest pains.

It tastes pleasant, stimulates the appetite, and has a slight tonic and laxative effect, which makes it an ideal remedy for the home.

Every person suffering with a cough should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better. —(Advt.)

REVEALS COMPLEXION SECRET OF THE SPANISH

Lady Tells How They Keep Their Youthful Complexions, Even at Sixty.

"As a young girl," writes one of our readers, "I always had a nice, clear and delicately-tinted complexion, but on reaching the age of thirty it changed completely. The chilly winter winds and rain made my skin rough and dry—my face used to burn and smart horribly after the slightest exposure to frost or cold. I felt very worried to see the dreadful change that was taking place. About this time I went for a trip abroad; and while travelling in the south of Spain became intimate with an elderly Spanish lady. Knowing how proud the Spanish girls are of their lovely skin, and hoping she could help me, I told her of my trouble. She advised me to obtain two ounces of rose water, one dram tincture of benzoin, and two ounces of ordinary flowers of oxolin from the chemist, which, she said, I could mix myself, and, after shaking well, apply it with a soft cloth or sponge. She stated that her family had used this lotion for years, and vowed it would quickly restore my complexion. I applied the lotion as she told me, and the result was surprising. In two days I saw a great difference. The skin was losing its roughness, the dry, tight feeling was easier, and the burning ceased altogether. After four days' use the change was wonderful. My skin had regained its smoothness, the pores were no longer coarse, and my complexion had grown younger before my very eyes. Regular use of this splendid recipe has kept my complexion beautiful for thirty years. It is inexpensive, delightful to use, and so effective that it cannot fail to please anyone who tries it."—(Adv.)

TO REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT

If you are over-stout the cause of your overweight is the lack of oxygen-carrying power in the blood and faulty assimilation of food. Too little is being made into the harder tissue of muscle and too much into little globules of fat. Therefore, you should correct the malassimilation and increase the oxygen-carrying power of the blood. To do this, go to any good chemist and get oil of orlene in capsule form, and take one capsule after each meal and one at bedtime till your weight is reduced to what it should be on all parts of the body. The effect of oil of orlene in capsule form is remarkable as a weight reducer, and it is perfectly safe.—E. J. T.—(Adv.)

Save this Famous "Cough Syrup" Recipe No Better Remedy at Any Price. Makes one Pint. Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing one and a half breakfast cups of granulated sugar and one breakfast cup of warm water and stir for two minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (cost about 2s. 9d.) in a bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of about 10s. It never spoils. Take one to two teaspoonfuls every two hours. The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It usually stops the most obstinate cough or cold in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Children like it. Also excellent for influenza, bronchitis, chest soreness, asthma, whooping cough, croup and other throat and lung troubles.

This famous Pinex mixture is a prime favourite in thousands of homes. The plan has been often imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is the most valuable extract of genuine Norway Pine, rich in gualiac and all the natural healing pine elements.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your chemist has Pinex, or can easily get it for you.—(Adv.)

TOMB OF THE HERO OF GIBRALTAR DISCOVERED.

The tomb of Admiral Whittaker, the hero of Gibraltar, has been discovered in Carshalton Churchyard after a long search. The vault, seen above, was found during church extensions, and a monument will be erected. It was Admiral Whittaker who led the attack on Gibraltar and won the famous fortress for the British.

PAVEMENT ARTIST KING.

Topical News on Street Flags—Postcard Portraits of Passers-By.

After spending forty nights on the Embankment, utterly destitute and homeless, William Puzey, one of London's "submerged tenth," decided to become an artist and draw portraits.

That was five years ago. To-day Puzey is probably the most successful pavement artist and portrait etcher (at a penny a time) in all London.

Puzey, who is to be found every day close to the Eccleston and Elizabeth bridges, Hammersmith, told The Daily Mirror yesterday some interesting particulars of his profession.

Just now, owing to the cold weather and absence of visitors, the portrait business is at rather a low ebb, and Puzey has to rely on his sale to the public of topical news-pictures on the pavement or on postcards.

"I am forty-seven, and have been everything, from a pawnbroker's assistant to a labourer," he said. "Five years ago I was without a penny in the world, and I had to live on food I found in the streets."

"At that time a pavement artist on the Embankment asked me to act as 'buck,' or 'ghost,' for him while he went home for his dinner."

"That gave me the idea of drawing for myself. I started straight away with some borrowed chalks and soon managed to scrape up a living."

Two years ago I began drawing pen and ink portraits of people at a penny a time. I did very well at it. On summer days last year and on Sundays I often did as many as fifty or sixty portraits a day. Some people gave me sixpence for them."

Puzey, who is a tall, carelessly-dressed man, with straggling hair and beard, is chiefly fond of drawing the little everyday incidents which occur in the Piccadilly streets—things which the busy man of the world passes by unnoticed.

A short while ago a cat swam across the Thames near the Elizabeth Bridge. Puzey promptly came out with a realistic picture of the event.

There is a dog owned by wealthy people which for twelve months past has been great friends with a street scavenger and does several tricks. He is also in the portrait gallery.

There are few Piccadilly cats this ingenious pavement artist has not drawn. One pathetic pen and ink drawing drawn from life shows a kitten sitting with a can of milk on a doorstep.

When Lieutenant-General Sir Robert Baden-Powell had a son, Puzey sent him a drawing of a baby boy scout, for which the chief scout sent him a shilling.

Mr. Pretzman Newman, M.P., who was injured in a motor accident on Sunday, was, after treatment at the Nice Hospital, able to return to the Hotel Windsor at Monte Carlo, says an Exchange telegram.

STOCKS AND SHARES.

9, BISHOPSGATE, E.C.

Among the few features that developed in the Stock Exchange yesterday were a fresh relapse in Consols and a further rise in Grand Trunks. Business generally remained very scarce and price movements were mostly small and irregular.

Consols made a firm opening, but developed weakness as the day advanced and closed as much as a quarter lower on balance at 71½ for cash.

Americans were usually firm at their reduced opening levels, while Canadas, after displaying early weakness, rallied and closed a half higher at 214½. Trunks continued to benefit from their satisfactory traffic figures, and the Ordinary rose another ½ to 20½, while the Thirds hardened to 48½.

Brazil Railway stocks remained on offer, but Mexicans rose a point all round, and B.A. Westerns and "Bags" were both in demand in the Argentine group. Greeks were weak in the Foreign market, and Peruvian Preference fell a quarter to 41½. The feature among Industrials was the weakness of Mexican issues.

Amalgamated Press Ordinary fell ¼ to 5½ and its, but the Preference were steady at 21s. Pictorial Newspaper Ordinary and Preference remained at 22s. 3d. and 18s. 3d. respectively, and Associated Newspaper Ordinary and Preference at 24s. 6d. and 20s. 6d.

The Natural Cancer Cure

The important discovery made by Dr. Forbes Ross, the famous London doctor and recognised Cancer Expert, that Cancer is caused by a lack of potassium "salts" in the body, is of vital interest to sufferers, and is causing a big stir in the medical world. The "Pall Mall Gazette," July 26, 1912, describing a lecture by him, quoted:—

"... he is able in the most emphatic way to define Cancer as a deficiency of potassium 'salts' in the body, and to assert with proofs in support that if this deficiency is remedied, Cancer, no matter how far advanced it may be, will retrograde. . . . A Cancer that could not be touched by a surgeon I have seen (said) in about six weeks disappear utterly and completely."

The Natural Cancer Cure Co. have been working on very similar lines to those advocated by Dr. Forbes Ross for some time with great success. They claim that Cancer patients by taking regular quantities of certain "salts" (composed largely of various forms of potassium) and carefully restricting their diet, can cure themselves in their own homes. Sufferers or their friends are therefore invited to write for a free booklet, which fully describes this wonderful method, to the Secretary, The Natural Cancer Cure Co., 150, Twickenham, Middlesex.—(Adv.)

THE IMPORTANT DEAFNESS DISCOVERY.

Specialists Say Suitable Cases May Test it Free.

BUT THEY DECIDE IF SUITABLE.

A method of treatment for Deafness and Head-Noises has been discovered, which, though useless for certain forms of the trouble, is said, for the kinds of ear-trouble that it does suit, to be producing results hitherto unobtainable. Cases of even many years' standing, on which everything else known has been tried in vain, have yielded at once to this remarkable new treatment.

Its discoverers—who have named the treatment "The Hyomene Deafness Treatment," because the famous germicidal inhalant Hyomene is one of the ingredients used in it—are so determined not to raise false hopes that they do not allow their treatment to be used at all on unsuitable cases; on the other hand, so confident are they of getting results in cases that it does suit, that in all cases where they do recommend it, they—for the present and until the offer is withdrawn—allow the sufferer to test it free.

Such an offer of free test could presumably only be made—even temporarily—for a treatment of quite exceptional merit, and it is only fair that the makers of such an offer should be allowed to themselves select the cases they agree to treat on the free test basis.

A booklet has been published giving full particulars of this new treatment, and clearly describing the features and symptoms of the particular kinds of Deafness and Head-Noises for which it is good. A copy of this booklet (accompanied by a Question Form, to be filled up and returned) may be had post free by sending a letter or postcard asking for same, to the Publishers—R. T. Booth's Hyomene, Limited, 925, Royston Road, 96, Southwark Street, London, S.E.

Sufferers from Deafness or Head-Noises are invited to send for that booklet and Question Form. When the latter is filled in and returned, the discoverers will be at once able to see from the information filled in thereon, if the case is one that is suitable for this new treatment, and if so will agree to furnish the necessary materials and instructions on the basis of their free test offer, or otherwise will write that their treatment would not be suitable to the particular case.

Since, therefore, sufferers can learn all about this new treatment by getting the booklet as above, and, without any risk, test it if suitable, the discoverers of this new treatment are likely to find a very large acceptance of their generous offer to Deafness sufferers. As the offer of Free Test may be at any time withdrawn if the discoverers find their hands too full, an early application for the free descriptive booklet is advisable.—(Adv.)

ENGLAND WINS THE CRICKET RUBBER.

South Africa Beaten in Third Test Match by 91 Runs.

LOSERS' PLUCKY EFFORT.

Only 35 Runs Behind the Record for Last Innings in Test Match—Barnes Again.

Although South Africa came within 35 runs of the record for a fourth innings in a Test match, at Johannesburg yesterday, England won by 91 runs. As South Africa were also beaten in the previous Tests, at Durban and Johannesburg, England win the rubber for the first time since a team was sent out officially by the English Cricket Council.

Lord Hawke's side of 1896 won all three matches played against a South African team, and in 1899 the two matches ended in easy victories for the England side. When the first series of five matches were played in 1908 P. F. Warner's side won by four matches to one, and in 1910 H. D. G. Leyson-Gower's team lost three games and won two.

Barnes, although his figures were not so startling as in the second Test, again had a big hand in England's victory. He took five wickets for 102 in the second innings, so his record for the three matches stands at thirty-five wickets for 394 runs.

When Barnes was asked to go with the present team there was a distinct pessimism among South African experts. C. W. Sweeney, who captained Natal against the late W. W. Read's team, said that if Barnes bowled up to best standard the Tests were a good thing for England—and so they have proved.

Still, Mr. Sweeney's words: "Just as the Irish peasant women frighten their children with the name of Cromwell, so do our good-fellowed cricketers when anybody mentions the word Barnes" may have been taken to heart too much by the South African.

H. W. Taylor and J. W. Zulu had a brilliant effort to save South Africa from defeat, but they failed to add 155 runs for the first wicket Barnes dismissed Hands, Nourse, Beaumont and Hartigan so quickly that six wickets were down for 175.

With the exception of a chance to Rhodes at square leg off Bell when he was bowled, the South African batsmen, however, were not so comfortable against Barnes as Zulu, but in the end it was he who got his wicket. Taylor was batted for an hour and a half and among his hits were seven 4's.

Hands, promoting the batting order, made only 7, and then left Barnes Zulu's fine innings to a close with a smart catch, low down, off his own bowling. Zulu was batted exactly 40 of his runs were made by boundary hits.

At lunch the total stood at 167 for three, and then Barnes put a different complexion on the scene. He sent down five overs—four of them maidens—and took three wickets for 5 runs.

Newberry and Ward put up a useful stand for the seventh wicket, and then Barnes and the South African wicketkeeper put on 78 for the next wicket. With the score 235, states Taylor, Barnes made a confident appeal for leg-side against Ward, and as he flowed in the answer when the decision was given in favour of the batsman the crowd subjected him to a howl.

Douglas eventually got Ward caught at the wicket for a steady 40, and with the last two wickets added only 9 runs in the innings to an end for 304. Scores: 2.

AUSTRALIAN CYCLISTS.

Team of Crack Riders to Compete in Season's French Road Races.

The Australian mail received on Saturday mentioned that a team of crack road riders—Don Kirkham, I. R. Munro, C. A. Percy and Alf McElroy—on their way to this country, having left Melbourne on December 30. The chief object of the trip is to compete in next season's big French road races, such as the Roubaix, Bordeaux, Paris and Tour de France.

This will be the first occasion upon which Australia has been suitably represented in any of the French classic races. The riders represent the cream of Australian road talent. Don Kirkham has some 120 races to his credit, and has won 100 of them. He is the holder of the 500-mile credit, which is his world's record of 49.36m. for an unbroken 500 miles in 1910.

I. R. Munro first came into fame on the road. He has won only a youth, owing to his remarkable ride in the Dunlop road race from Warrnambool to Melbourne. He was the fastest time not only for that year but for the whole series of Warrnambool races, his time for the 165 miles being 7h. 12m. 51s.

C. A. Percy won the "Warrnambool" in 1910. Since then he has developed into a good all-round rider, and amongst his successes are the ten miles Australian track championships, which he won in 1911 and again in 1912.

Amongst the giant of the party stands 6ft. 11in. in height, and weighs striped 175 lb. He shines on the track, but in important Australian long distance road events. Probably his best performance was in the Dunlop cup race last year, in which he started off scratch with Kirkham and made fastest time, completing the 116 miles from Camperdown to Footscray in the phenomenal time of 4h. 54m. 10s.

'CHASING AT WYE.

Another Easy Win for Lycabettus—Gatwick Meeting To-day.

Gatwick presents a very interesting programme today. It is the first important steeplechase meeting of the week, and doubtless after the holiday recess a big crowd will be found in attendance.

There were plenty of runners and very good sport at Wye and the pretty little course was well patronised. All trace of frost had disappeared—in fact, there was more rain than most folk welcomed. Galt Tweed's defeat in the opening race by the Exeter representative, Golden Nugget, had ample compensation later when Poole's Handicap Steeplechase and Cherry Bay at the Ashford Handicap hurdle.

Mr. Gusher turned up to ride Hazel Twig, which he trains for that well-known Irish owner, Mr. B. W. Parr. Hazel Twig had no difficulty in winning the Canterbury Steeplechase from a very weak field. Lycabettus had put up an excellent record in steeplechasing, but in the Maiden Hurdle he was making his first appearance over hurdles. A pair more fancied by the speculative public were Nettlelaw Lane, ridden by Pigott, and Speedy King, by G. Duller. Mr. Lennox Harvey, owner of Lycabettus, rode, as usual, and, moreover, won a couple of winners, Achaicus taking the Selling Handicap Steeplechase and Cherry Bay at the Ashford Handicap hurdle.

Pape's stable also supplied the winner of the Dover Handicap Steeplechase, in which Prince Abercorn defeated Prospect and Flax Field.
